

Carbon credits

Compensate emissions that cannot be avoided or reduced

Carbon credits are one of the many solutions to decarbonisation. Apart from helping companies to compensate for residual emissions that cannot be reduced, they can also finance decarbonisation beyond companies' value chains.

GoNetZero™ offers quality carbon offset projects that reduce emissions while also providing broader social benefits, such as clean energy, water, improved air quality, and access to education.

WHY CONSIDER CARBON CREDITS:

- Fund climate action with verified climate contributions
- Support a variety of projects that provide sustainable development in communities around the world
- Contribute above and beyond what you are doing to decarbonise
- Compensate for residual emissions that cannot be eliminated

WHAT ARE CARBON CREDITS:

A carbon credit represents the avoidance or removal of one tonne of CO₂ equivalent. Each carbon credit carries a unique serial number that is recorded on an independent registry to avoid double-counting.

As a result, a company could purchase one carbon credit and retire it to offset 1 tonne of their CO₂e emissions. Once used to offset any organisation's emissions, they are retired forever, and cannot be sold again.

WHERE ARE THEY SOURCED FROM:

GoNetZero™'s carbon credits are issued from Sembcorp's portfolio of renewable energy projects.

We also source a variety of credits from our trusted network of partners, according to your needs. These include credits for different project types, including nature and technology-based projects, vintages, countries of origin, and registries.
